

Dani Bennoni: Long May He Live

A stunning, sophisticated story about a boys love for his older brother. Bing wants more than anything to become a soccer player like his big brother Mone. Thats no easy matter for a Belgian boy of eleven or twelve, especially for a boy like Bing. Its the late 1930s, and Mone has been conscripted into the army, leaving Bings mother more or less dysfunctional. With the clear understanding that if he wants to get anything hes going to have to do it by dint of brains, cunning, and perhaps a bit of chicanery, Bing asks the local soccer hero, Dani Bennoni, for help. Dani Bennoni kindly but firmly refuses to train him. Bing hatches a plan to get Danis help, but the plan backfires, and the misunderstandings multiply. Dani decides to teach Bing a lesson. What followsand the action all occurs in a twenty-four-hour periodinvolves deception, confrontation, panic, humiliation amid a bit of homosexual activity, and Bings unsuccessful attempt to hide Danis call-up notice. The motivating force behind all Bings decisions and activities is his love for his brother, unencumbered by sentimentality, making it all the more profound.
